nigel barley was a new anthropologist one of the younger generation of academics whose learning and research had been acquired in institutes research departments from academic journals and university libraries but after suffering years of gentle put downs from leathery old field workers their teeth permanently gritted from years of dealing with natives he was determined to gain his own experience the two years he spent among the dowayo people in the cameroons 1978 80 produced a comic masterpiece of travel writing the innocent anthropologist which remains as honest as funny this book is a compilation from various sources and is an experimental approach to list the anthropologists in this world by reading this book readers may get awareness on field of anthropology and the scope and the limits however its just a small part i e only volume 01 of the book 2nd volume is under editing in this highly personal account joy hendry relates her experiences of fieldwork in a japanese town and reveals a fascinating cross section of japanese life she sets out on a study of politeness but a variety of unpredictable events including a volcanic eruption a suicide and her son s involvement with the family of a powerful local gangster begin to alter the direction of her research the book demonstrates the role of chance in the acquisition of anthropological knowledge and demonstrates how moments of insight can be embedded in everyday activity an anthropologist in japan illuminates the education system religious beliefs politics the family and the neighbourhood in modern japan describes the misadventures of a novice anthropologist trying to study the culture of the dowa people of the cameroons nigel barley travels to sulawesi in indonesia to live among the torajan people known for their spectacular buildings and elaborate ancestor cults at last he is following his own advice to students to do their anthropological fieldwork somewhere where the inhabitants are beautiful friendly where you would like the food barley explores the island on horseback and in buses jammed to the gunnels and meets priests faithful to the old animist rituals with his customary wit he takes the reader deep into this complex but adaptable society reversing the habitual patterns of anthropology barley then invites four torajan carvers to london to build a traditional rice barn at the museum of mankind the observer becomes the observed now it is barley's turn to explain the absurdities of an english city to his bemused guests in a glorious finale to a trilogy of anthropological journeys that began with the innocent anthropologist and continued with a plague of caterpillars both published by eland a postscript penned thirty years after these adventures had been concluded confirms the rich arc of this story line of role reversals anthropology written for a popular audience is the most neglected branch of the discipline in the 1980s postmodernist anthropologists began to explore the literary and reflective aspects of their work popularizing anthropology advances that trend by looking at a key but previously marginalized genre of anthropology the contributors who are well known anthropologists explore such themes as why so many anthropologists are women how the japanese have reacted to ruth benedict why margaret mead became so successful how the french media promote levi strauss and louis dumont why bruce chatwin tells us more about aboriginals than many anthropologists in australia how personal accounts of fieldwork have evolved since the 1950s how to write a personal account of fieldwork popularizing anthropology unearths a submerged tradition within anthropology and reveals that from the beginning anthropologists have looked beyond the boundaries of the academy for their listeners it aims to establish the popularization of the discipline as an illuminating topic of investigation in its own right arguing that it is not an irrelevant appendage to the main body of the subject but has always been an integral part of it the new edition of travel writing is an accessible and interdisciplinary guide to this prolific and popular literary genre carl thompson offers a clear and concise overview of the long history of travel writing from the ancient world to the present day considering a wide range of primary sources from sir walter raleigh to jenny diskini the extensively updated second edition introduces the genre and outlines key debates within the field such as gender sexuality postcolonial studies and visual culture explores the genre's autobiographical dimensions and different approaches for depicting the self surveys a range of canonical and more marginal works featuring new discussion of refugee and migrant narratives and lgbtq travel writing includes a new chapter walking readers through the developments in the genre since the first edition such as online forms environmentalism and ecocriticism and travel writing as an increasingly transnational multicultural genre with a comprehensive glossary and further reading travel writing second edition is an ideal primer to the genre for students bridging the gap between distant times and distant places as well as offering literary studies scholars an essential overview of current debates in the field stimulated by discussions of responsibility and ethics in anthropological fieldwork this book explores what happens when people who are the subjects of research read what has been written about them the most current and detailed case study of south asia available this book documents the ways in which the members of a remote agricultural village cope with the dangers that plague them by employing a complex system of ritual practices and beliefs in supernatural forces the book also addresses topics commonly neglected in other case studies such as formal education problems in remote areas the independent and self confident women of the developing world and the trials of developmental work in these areas
